Best Practices in Public Companies 2005 including the comment of HELIO S.A.

General Rules

I. Objective of the Company

The main objective of a company's authorities is to further the company's interests, i.e. to increase the value of the assets entrusted to them by the shareholders, taking into consideration the rights and interests of entities other than the shareholders that are involved in the functioning of the company, especially the company's creditors and employees.

II. Majority Rule and Protection of the Minority

A joint-stock company is a capital venture, therefore it must respect the principle of capital majority rule and the primacy of majority over minority. A shareholder who contributes more capital also bears a greater economic risk. It is, therefore, justified that his interests be considered in proportion to the capital he contributes. The minority must have a guarantee that their rights will be properly protected within the limits set by the law and commercial integrity. When exercising his rights, a majority shareholder should take into account the interests of the minority.

III. Honest Intentions and No-Abuse of Rights

The exercising of rights and reliance on legal institutions should be based on honest intentions (good faith) and cannot go beyond the purpose and economic reasons for which these institutions are established. No actions should be taken which, by exceeding the limits set, constitute an abuse of the law. The minority should be protected against any abuse of ownership rights by the majority and the interests of the majority should be protected against any abuse by the minority of its rights, thus ensuring the best possible protection of the equitable interests of the shareholders and other market participants.

IV. Court Control

The company's authorities and persons chairing the general meeting cannot decide on issues which should be resolved by a court judgment. This does not apply to activities which the company's authorities and persons chairing general meetings are authorised or obliged to undertake by force of law.

V. Independent Opinions Ordered by the Company

When choosing an entity to provide expert services, particularly an auditor, financial and tax advisors or legal advisors, the company should examine whether there are any circumstances that would limit the entity's independence when performing the tasks entrusted.

Best Practices of General Meetings
1	A general meeting should take place in a location and at a time that allows the participation of as many shareholders as possible.	Yes
2	A request made by parties entitled to do so for a general meeting to be convened and for certain issues to be put on its agenda should be justified. Draft resolutions proposed for adoption by the general meeting and other key documents should be presented to the shareholders together with justification and a supervisory board opinion before the general meeting to allow them time to review and evaluate the same.	Yes
3	A general meeting convened on the shareholders' request should be held on the date given in the request and, if this date cannot be kept, on the nearest date that would allow the general meeting to settle the issues on its agenda.	Yes
4	A general meeting whose agenda includes certain issues at the request of authorized entities or which has been convened on such a request can only be cancelled with the consent of the requesting parties. In all other instances, a general meeting can be cancelled if its holding is hindered (force majeure) or is obviously groundless. A meeting is called off in the same way as it is convened, limiting negative consequences for the company and its shareholders as far as possible and no later than three weeks before the original meeting date. A change in the date of a general	Yes meeting is made in the same way as a cancellation, even if the proposed agenda does not change.

5	Before a shareholder's representative can participate in a general meeting, his right to act on the shareholder's behalf should be duly documented. It should be presumed that a written document confirming the right to represent a shareholder at a general meeting conforms with the law and does not require any additional confirmations or acknowledgement unless the company's management board or the chairman of the general meeting has doubts about its authenticity or validity prima facie (when drawing up the list of attendance).	Yes
6	The general meeting should have regular by-laws setting out in detail the principles on which meetings are conducted and resolutions adopted. The by-laws should, in particular, contain provisions on elections, including elections to the supervisory board by voting in separate groups. The by-laws should not be subject to frequent change; it is advisable for any changes to enter into force as of the following general meeting.	Yes
7	The person opening the general meeting should immediately organise the election of the meeting chairman and should refrain from making any substantial or formal decisions.	Yes
8	The chairman of the general meeting ensures that the meeting is run efficiently and that the rights and interests of all the shareholders are observed. The chairman should, in particular, counteract any abuse of rights by meeting participants and should guarantee that the rights of minority shareholders are respected. The chairman should not, without good reason, resign from his function or delay signing the meeting minutes.	Yes

9	A general meeting should be attended by the members of both the supervisory board and the management board. The auditor should also be present at an annual general meeting and an extraordinary general meeting if the company's financial matters are to be discussed. The absence of a supervisory or management board member from the general meeting requires an explanation, which should be given at the meeting.	Yes
10	Supervisory and management board members and the company's auditor should, within their powers and to the extent needed to settle issues discussed at the general meeting, provide meeting participants with explanations and information about the company.	Yes
11	All answers provided by the management board to questions posed by the general meeting should take into account the fact that a public company carries out its reporting obligations in the way stipulated in the Law on the Public Trading in Securities; certain information cannot be provided in any other way.	Yes
12	Short breaks in the session which do not constitute an adjournment and are ordered by the chairman in justified cases cannot be aimed at hindering the exercising by the shareholders of their rights.	Yes
13	Voting on administrative issues may only concern issues related to the running of the meeting. Resolutions which may have an impact on the exercising by the shareholders of their rights cannot be voted on in this way.	Yes
14	A resolution not to consider an issue on the agenda may be adopted only if it is supported by sound reasons. Any motion in this respect should be accompanied by a detailed justification. A decision to remove an item from the agenda or not to consider an issue put on the agenda at a	Yes

	shareholder's request requires a general meeting resolution, once all the shareholders present who put the issue on the agenda have given their consent, supported by 75% of the votes present at the meeting.
15	Any party objecting to a resolution must be given the opportunity to put forward concise reasons for its objections.	Yes
16	As the Code of Commercial Companies does not provide for court control in the event of a resolution not being adopted by the general meeting, the management board or the meeting chairman should form resolutions in such a way that anyone who does not agree with the merits of a decision being the subject of the resolution has the possibility of challenging the same, provided that he is entitled to do so.	Yes
17	Written statements made by a participant at a general meeting are recorded in the minutes at the participant's request.	Yes
Best Practices of Supervisory Boards
18	The supervisory board submits a concise evaluation of the company's standing to the general meeting every year. The evaluation should be made available to all shareholders early enough to allow them to become acquainted with the contents before the annual general meeting.	Yes
19	A member of the supervisory board should have the relevant education, the appropriate professional and practical experience, be of high moral standing and be able to devote the time required to perform his supervisory board function properly. Supervisory board candidature should be announced and supported by reasons sufficiently detailed to enable an informed choice to be made	Yes

20	a) At least one half of the members of the supervisory board should be independent members, subject to point d). Independent members of the supervisory board should not have any relations with the company and its shareholders or employees which could have significant impact on the ability of the independent member to make impartial decisions; b) detailed criteria of independence should be laid down in the statutes of the company; c) without a consent of the majority of the independent members of the supervisory board, no resolution shall be adopted on the following issues: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • services of any kind by the company and any entities associated with the company for the benefit of the members of the management board; • consent to conclude by the company or its subsidiary a material agreement with an entity associated with the company, member of the supervisory board or the management and with their associated entities; • appointment of an expert auditor to carry out an audit of the financial statement of the company. d) in companies where a single shareholder holds a block of shares constituting more than 50% of the total number of votes, the supervisory board should consist of at least two independent members, including an independent chairperson of the audit committee provided such a committee has been established.	No	The Issuer did not apply the principle concerned. Major shareholders of the Company have sufficient knowledge and experience in exercising effective and correct proprietary supervision by its own representatives, whose knowledge and qualifications they fully trust. Statutes of the company do not define the criteria of independence for the members of the Supervisory Board. Personal composition of the Supervisory Board of the Company, and especially having two independent members in the Supervisory Board, in accordance with the opinion of the Management Board secures properly the interests of all groups of shareholders including also minority shareholders.

21	A supervisory board member should, above all, keep the company's interests in mind.	Yes
22	Supervisory board members should take the relevant action to receive from the management board regular and complete information on any and all significant issues concerning the company's operations and on any risks related to the business and ways of managing such risks.	Yes
23	A supervisory board member should inform the other members of the board of any conflict of interest that arises, and should refrain from participating in discussions and from voting on any resolution on the issue in respect of which the conflict of interest has arisen.	Yes
24	Information on a supervisory board member's personal, actual and organizational connections with a given shareholder, particularly with the majority shareholder, should be made publicly available. The company should have a procedure in place for obtaining such information from supervisory board members and for making it publicly available.	Yes
25	Supervisory board meetings should be accessible and open to management board members, save for issues which directly concern the management board or its members, especially the removal, liability and remuneration (of management board members).	Yes
26	A supervisory board member should make it possible for the management board to present publicly and in an appropriate manner information on the transfer or acquisition of shares in the company or in its dominant company or subsidiary and of transactions with such companies, provided that such information is relevant to his financial standing.	Yes

27	Supervisory board members' remuneration should be set on the basis of a set of transparent procedures and rules. The remuneration should be fair but should not constitute a significant cost item in the company's business or have a material impact on its financial results. It should also be in reasonable relation to the remuneration of members of the management board. The total amount of all supervisory board members' remuneration, as well as the remuneration of individual members, with a breakdown of its various elements should be disclosed in the annual report together with information on the procedures and rules applied to determine it.	Yes
28	The supervisory board should operate in accordance with its regulations which should be available to the public. The regulations should assume appointment of at least two committees: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • audit committee, and • remuneration committee. the audit committee should consist of at least two independent members and at least one member qualified and experienced in accounting and finance. The duties of the committees should be determined in detail in the regulations of the supervisory board. The board committees should submit annual reports of their operations to the supervisory board. These reports should be made available by the company to the shareholders.	No	The Issuer did not apply the principle concerned. Considering the size of the activities of the Company, the Issuer takes the stance that selecting from the five-person composition of the Supervisory Board the remuneration committee and the audit committee is not legitimate.
29	The agenda of a supervisory board meeting should not be amended or supplemented during the meeting to which it relates. This requirement does not apply if all the supervisory board members are present and agree to the amendment or supplementation, and if certain actions have to be taken by the supervisory board to protect the	Yes company against damage and in the case of a resolution assessing whether there is a conflict of interests between a supervisory board member and the company.

30	A supervisory board member delegated by a group of shareholders to permanently exercise supervision should submit detailed reports on the performance of his task to the supervisory board.	Yes
31	A supervisory board member should not resign from his function during his term of office if this would make it impossible for the board to function, particularly if it could hinder the timely adoption of an important resolution.	Yes
Best Practices of Management Boards
32	With the company's interests in mind, the management board sets out the strategy and the main objects of the company's operations and submits them to the supervisory board. The management board is responsible for implementation and performance. The management board sees that the company's management system is transparent and effective and that its business is conducted in accordance with legal regulations and best practice.	Yes
33	When making decisions on corporate issues, management board members should act within the limits of justified business risk, i.e. after considering all information, analyses and opinions, which, in the reasonable opinion of the management board, should be taken into account in a given case in view of the company's interest. When determining the company's interests, the long-term interests of the company's shareholders, creditors and employees should be kept in mind,	Yes

	as well as those of other entities and persons cooperating with the company, also the interests of the local community.
34	In transactions with shareholders and other persons whose interests affect those of the company, the management board should act with the utmost care to ensure that the transactions are carried out at arm's length.	Yes
35	A management board member should always be loyal to the company and avoid actions which could lead to the advancement of his own material interests only. If a management board member receives information about the opportunity to make an investment or another advantageous transaction relating to the company's objects, he should put this information immediately before the management board to be reviewed in terms of the company taking advantage of it. Such information may only be used by a management board member or passed on to a third party with the consent of the management board and only if it does not infringe on the company's interests.	Yes
36	A management board member should treat his shares in the company and its dominant companies and subsidiaries as a long-term investment.	Yes
37	Management board members should inform the supervisory board whenever a conflict of interests arises, or if there is a risk of a conflict of interests arising in connection with the function performed.	Yes
38	The remuneration of management board members should be set on the basis of transparent procedures and principles, taking into account its incentive nature and ensuring effective and smooth management of the company. The remuneration should correspond to the size of the company's business enterprise, should be in	Yes reasonable relation to business results, and be related to the scope of liability in a given function, taking into account the level of remuneration of members of management boards in similar companies on a similar market.

39	The total amount of all management board members' remuneration, as well as the remuneration of individual members, with a breakdown of its various elements should be disclosed in the annual report together with information on the procedures and rules applied to determine it. If the amount of the remuneration of individual members of the management board significantly differs, it is recommended that a relevant explanation be published.	Yes
40	The management board should lay down in the by-laws principles and procedures for operating and allocating powers. These principles should be clear and generally available.	Yes
Best Practices in Relations with Third Parties and Third Party Institutions
41	When selecting an auditor, the company should ensure that he will perform the tasks entrusted to him impartially.	Yes
42	In order to ensure an impartial opinion, the company should change its auditor once every five years at the least. The change of auditor should also be understood as a change in the individual carrying out the audit. Additionally, over a long period of time the company should not use the services of the same auditing entity.	Yes
43	The expert auditor should be selected by the supervisory board upon receiving recommendations from the audit committee or by the general meeting, upon receiving	No	The Issuer did not apply the principle concerned. Principle No. 43 describes the recommendation of the audit committee when selecting an entity

	recommendations from the supervisory board containing the recommendations from the audit committee. Deciding by the supervisory board or by the general meeting on a selection different than recommended by the audit committee by should be justified in detail. Information about the selection of an entity acting as an expert auditor with a statement of reason shall be included in the annual report.		acting as an expert auditor. Due to the fact that the Company did not fully apply Principle No. 28 assuming among other things the appointment of an audit committee, it was not possible to fully adopt Principle No. 43. Pursuant to the Statutes of the Company and the Regulations of the Supervisory Board, the Supervisory Board selects an expert auditor upon a request of the Management Board in such a way as to assure independence on accomplishing entrusted tasks. The Issuer applied this principle only partially on account of the lack of an audit committee in the Supervisory Board. Application of this principle would mean application of principle 20 and 28, which the Issuer did not applied for the aforementioned reasons.
44	The current auditor or the auditor auditing the annual accounts of the company or its subsidiaries in the period under examination cannot act as a special purpose auditor for the same company.	Yes
45	A company should acquire its own shares in such a way that no group of shareholders is privileged.	Yes
46	The company's statutes, its basic internal regulations, information and documents related to general meetings, and its financial statements should be made available in the company's registered office and on its website.	Yes
47	A company should have appropriate media relations procedures and regulations and an information policy ensuring coherent and reliable information about the company. The company should, in compliance with legal regulations and to safeguard its interests, make information on its current operations and business standing available to media representatives and allow them to attend general meetings.	Yes

48	In its annual report, a company should include a statement to the effect that corporate governance standards are applied. Any departure from these standards should also be publicly explained.	Yes
